257 N.J. Super. 508 (1992) 608 A.2d 492 STATE OF NEW JERSEY, PLAINTIFF-RESPONDENT, v. KENNETH J. BURTON, DEFENDANT-APPELLANT. Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division. Submitted February 18, 1992. Decided May 7, 1992. Before ANTELL, J.H., and BROEFS, J.S. PER CURIAM. Defendant was charged with possession of cocaine with intent to distribute. He filed a motion to suppress the evidence obtained during a search of his person and the toilet in his office, arguing that the police were without lawful authority to conduct a warrantless search of his person and his toilet. After an evidentiary hearing, the trial court denied the motion and defendant was convicted. Defendant contends on appeal that the search of his toilet constituted an unconstitutional violation of the prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures and that defendant's mere presence on a toilet was insufficient for a warrantless search. We reject these contentions and affirm. *509 On February 19, 1990, defendant's residence was searched pursuant to a warrant. Approximately two hours later, a police officer at the precinct staked out the premises and was told by a neighbor of the existence of a commode located in the office next to defendant's bedroom. Defendant was observed by the officer subsequently removing the lid from the toilet bowl in the office. The officer then saw defendant take a small object from the toilet, and place it into his mouth. He then saw defendant place the object back into the toilet and replace the lid. The officer entered the office, placed defendant under arrest and conducted a search incident to the arrest, which revealed that defendant was in possession of a small amount of cocaine. There was no warrant. The state argues that the search of the toilet and the arrest of defendant was authorized by an exigent circumstances exception to the warrant requirement. The motion judge agreed with the state, finding that defendant's "action of removing the lid from a toilet and his act of concealing drugs therein presented a substantial risk of harm to the officers conducting the search, and thus, any delay in procuring a warrant would have created a significant and dangerous risk of destruction of evidence and harm to others." The Fourth Amendment provides that: The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against
